To the extent possible, community volunteers are expected to support the gallery in a variety of ways. They are expected to staff the gallery once a month or to help at events such as performances or First Friday. Volunteers also help with special projects such as publicity or mailings. Although they are not required to pay dues, they may contribute financially to the gallery.

Community volunteers may attend all membership and committee meetings and may have a voice at these meetings, but they do not get to vote and are not included in exhibitions for members.
